Brian L Witherell : Late 19th Century Furniture by Berkey and Gay (Schiffer Book for Collectors) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Late 19th Century Furniture by Berkey and Gay (Schiffer Book for Collectors):

UselessBy kb in WashingtonI was unhappy when I received this book. It details only bedroom furniture and some living room furniture. The dining room furniture is completely missing--not a stitch there. And that was the only reason I wanted it in the first place...to try to find out something about the set I have. This book was worthless to me.

The Berkey and Gay furniture Company of Grand Rapids, Michigan, became one of the leading nineteenth century furniture manufacturers in America. Furniture in the Gothic Revival and Eastlake styles by Berkey and Gay became well known for their high quality, and two Neo Grec chamber suites by Berkey and Gay won recognition of high merit at the 1876 Philadelphia Centennial Exposition. Over 300 photographs of Berkey and Gay furniture from company catalogs are presented with value ranges for today's market in this useful reference book for furniture historians, dealers, and collectors.
